

JESSA RHODES

embodying everything your wildest fantasy entails.

She showed up on set with her fresh face and comfy clothes and, even before being prepped to shoot - she was shining!

> We expected to be blown away by her beauty but it's not everyday you meet someone with such a pure and radiant personality.

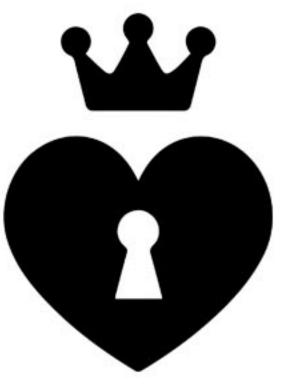

Her piercing blue eyes, love of laughter and captivating charm were just enough to show everyone on set why she ends up being one of your deepest desires!

You were the perfect fit for our "Boss Bitch Issue" because although you are fun and full of life you are also very serious when it comes to your successes, and chase your dreams even if they are big enough to scare you. The real definition of a boss bitch is someone who has fear, but does not let it stand between her and what she wants. Why would you consider yourself a boss?

Jessa- because everyday I'm hustlin' haha seriously though I work very hard and I handle my shit on the daily. I have a strong personality and I never take shit from anyone.

Your relationship history shows that you are a diverse being and chemistry is what's important to you. Would you say that the Jessa standing before us today prefers a young, wild man who likes to experiment, or an older more mature man knows exactly what he wants?

Jessa- Normally I would say an older man who knows what he wants because I don't like to play games but to be honest, I've tried both and neither have really gone well for me so I'm actually currently dating a girl (my bestie and soulmate Cali Carter, who is also featured in this issue) and things are going great!

We all know that you ROCK the porn industry without any trouble and that one of your dreams outside of this industry is to design clothing.

We've seen an outfit you created for an award show and it was amazing!

Where did you discover your passion for fashion and where are you hoping to go with it?

Jessa- I started designing my red carpet dresses because I was getting sick of the idea that I someday would show up to an event with the same dress as someone else.

Everytime I go shopping I see clothes I love but always have an opinion on things that should be changed slightly and won't end up buying them. I said "Fuck this. At the end of the day, I should just do it my way and do it myself!"

I started designing my dresses for the red carpet and my dance costumes. I really surprised myself as I never considered myself the creative type. I someday would like to design dresses like that for others because as a girl, I know what they want! I have an idea for a clothing line with a very grungy style I hope to pursue also!

I already have a name picked and everything!:)

Being the girl that men around the globe think about while cumming must be a real ego boost! Aside from being part of their fantasies, what would you say is your ultimate sexual fantasy?

Jessa- My ultimate sexual fantasy is a gladiator fantasy. Ever since I first laid eyes on Russell Crowe in Gladiator, it was my go-to masturbation scene.

I have been watching a lot of things with vikings lately too.

I don't know why but the ruggedness of these men is just so HOT!

You grew up being homeschooled in a small town and moved to the City of Angels - what was the change like for you and do you see yourself living anywhere but LA?

Jessa- The change from Oregon to LA was crazy. I definitely did not settle in fast.

I spent the first 2 years with my stuff in boxes.

I have always considered myself a country girl at heart and loved Oregon.

LA started growing on me after being in the Valley for 4 years.

I hated downtown and the city in general but one day out of nowhere I had a complete change of heart.

Now I look back and I think because my mindset has changed the city is a bit more appealing to me now.

I have way more goals and want to pursue so much.

I am actually more productive here and it suits me much better.

You have tons of girl/girl scenes and lick pussy like a true professional so you already had that part in the bag. Aside from engaging in passionate lesbian scenarios, what do you enjoy most about being with a girl now?

Jessa- It's funny because I just had this conversation with a guy friend of mine who didn't understand why I didn't wanna hook up with him.

Being with a girl is not as complex as you think. We really care about each other and have a real friendship behind it all. Being sexually attracted to each other is the cherry on the cake. We are so close and appreciate one another so it feels much more like soul mates. The intimacy level is bigger and it's a bit more "soul-latching" than just "fucking" someone.

When she tells me she loves me, I know she means it and it's effortless.

Jessa- I was kind of at a weird limbo stage in my life and unsure of what I truly wanted. I started dancing pretty young and have always been that girl who is a little "out there". I was that party girl who took her shirt off for fun, etc. When I got into porn at first it was a little difficult to grasp and figure out but once you get comfortable it's easier.

surprised myself at how much I changed. My fantasies also sort of got darker and darker. 4 years ago the thought of a guy cumming on my face would have been weird but now I LOVE it! Plus, I think it's important to stick to what you're good at!

We had such a hard time choosing the final photo selection because you work the camera like a true superstar. You are a mix between a young, seductive Marilyn Monroe and a Guess jeans model.

You could have taken any path with your beauty, why did you choose porn?

It was so much fun working with you.

After our shoot, you tweeted that ManyVids is your new favorite company (thank you so much that had the whole team beaming with delight!) could you elaborate on why you feel this way?

Jessa- Because you guys are freaking awesome. I had an amazing time shooting with you. I love your website. I feel like it is sooo much better than C4S. It is much more appealing, comfortable and user-friendly to use but most of all I love the team!

What's not to love?

During your visit to Montreal you (and a few members from the MV Team) had a wild night out on the town.

How did you leave the shoot and wind up ending your night at one of Montreal's most prestigious strip clubs (Chez Parée)?

Jessa- Whenever I drink I usually try to end up at a strip club! I love and appreciate dancers. Stripclubs are always fun and you don't have to worry about getting hit on. You can be yourself and the environment is amazing and you are free to be your sexual self.

I might have gotten way too drunk otherwise I would have never got up on that pole and dumped water everywhere. It was so much fun though so NO REGRETS!

No Shame the porn game

We live in a day and age where women can be presidents, MMA fighters, astronauts, soldiers - anything they want to be! Yet, even after all these advancements, we still cannot fuck to our heart's desire.

Well, we can... but you'd better believe you'll be downgraded a notch or two on the morality scale if you enjoy it or talk about it, let alone charge for it. You can lay your ass on the line to protect and serve your community but heaven forbid you should lay your ass on someone's face for a living. For sex workers the struggle - and the stigma - is real. The same people that pay for porn are quick to judge the people who produce and star in it, as though being a fiercely independent entrepreneur is something to sneer at simply because of the domain being represented.

Why should I care if my friend likes to have 4 guys drill her at once or if my accountant is into glory holes? We should form opinions of people on the basis of their character, not how they like to get

We live in a digital world where the only limits to our indulgences are the confines of our own imaginations; a world with seemingly endless accessibility to anything your naughty little mind can think of, and one in which we enjoy instant access to everything and everyone. With the stroke of a keyboard you can find a partner with whom to plan a tryst on your lunch hour or take a break from a night out in order get some juicy head in a bathroom stall without anyone being the wiser.

Yet, if you are a woman who adores sex, especially the more "hardcore" stuff, you might have had the unpleasant experience of having a guy actually thank you for something like anal, deepthroat or other "unconventional" acts that women are assumed to dislike.

Case in point: my previous employer. Last Christmas she threw an office party that her husband and their mutual boyfriend both attended. Later, as I was leaving, I heard a low groan followed by a light slap and rapturous moaning coming from her office and that night I saw my pristine power-suit wielding superior in a way that gave me real perspective on how someone in complete control can allow herself to be voluntarily submissive without being diminished.

She was bent over a lounge chair having the time of her life, satin cream dress pulled up to her hips, the top pulled down and pushing up a pair of incredibly round, pert breasts glistening with the glow of perspiration and bobbing at the same frequency as the soft tap-tap-tap of her husband's balls bouncing off a perfect ass being held open by the rough, strong hands of her boyfriend. I watched in awe as she threw her head back in laughter, her eyes shining with bliss, her usually perfectly placed hair tumbling wildly and damp with sweat, loose waves jerking violently as Jack, her husband, grabbed a lush handful of it and tugged playfully, using his grip to position her pouted crimson lips over the boyfriend's cock and continuing to slide into her from behind as her cheekbones flexed with the effort of taking her other lover in full. I was floored by how vulnerable and subservient she was and how much she was relishing every second but what struck me most was what happened afterwards. As she wiped a generous load of cum from her grinning lips, some spilling down her chin and onto her rock-hard nipples in thick sticky gobs, her boyfriend, wiggling back into his jeans, exclaimed "Damn, Lucy, that was incredible. Thanks!"

It's as though people can't wrap their heads around the concept that a "good" girl would willingly and enthusiastically engage in acts often seen as degrading, as though she endures it only for the sake of her partners and could not possibly be enjoying herself as much as they do. Women are taught to feel guilty for loving sex. What's the old saying? "Men want a lady in the streets but a freak in the sheets?" The implication is that this is only what men want, and it hints towards a notion wherein women are assumed to agree to things like threesomes or facials as a treat or a favor rather than a genuine desire to engage in such acts.

Sex sells and people love to fuck, yet those who make their living selling sex are often treated like lepers.

Meanwhile, the sex industry is anything but the deceptive, manipulative environment it's so often made out to be. What could be more transparent than nudity? People want to feel wanted and a girl who will eagerly swallow your load and smile up at you while she does is it is in high demand. We're talking about two willing adults participating in a transaction where they both get exactly what they want.

So what's the problem?

Why such scorn from those who subscribe to a different set of ideals?

There is a sort of emotional exile from society that sex workers face and little progress has been made in that regard. I hope to soon see the day where adult performers are afforded the same respect as gymnasts, ballerinas, contortionists, and others who use their bodies as graceful tools with which to make art that is appreciated by millions of people. Sex is our purest form of expression, and turning these intimate interactions into transactions does not make them any less worthy.

Will 2017 be the year that sex workers are finally released from the criticisms of a holier-than-thou society and be accepted as opposed to ostracized because they don't succumb to the pressure to act like what's underneath their clothes is shameful? People choose this line of work because they like it, because they're good at it, and because it pays well.... Isn't that the ideal set of requirements for any career? And really, what could be a better way to earn a living than a career that demands passion, creativity and true dedication to one's craft?

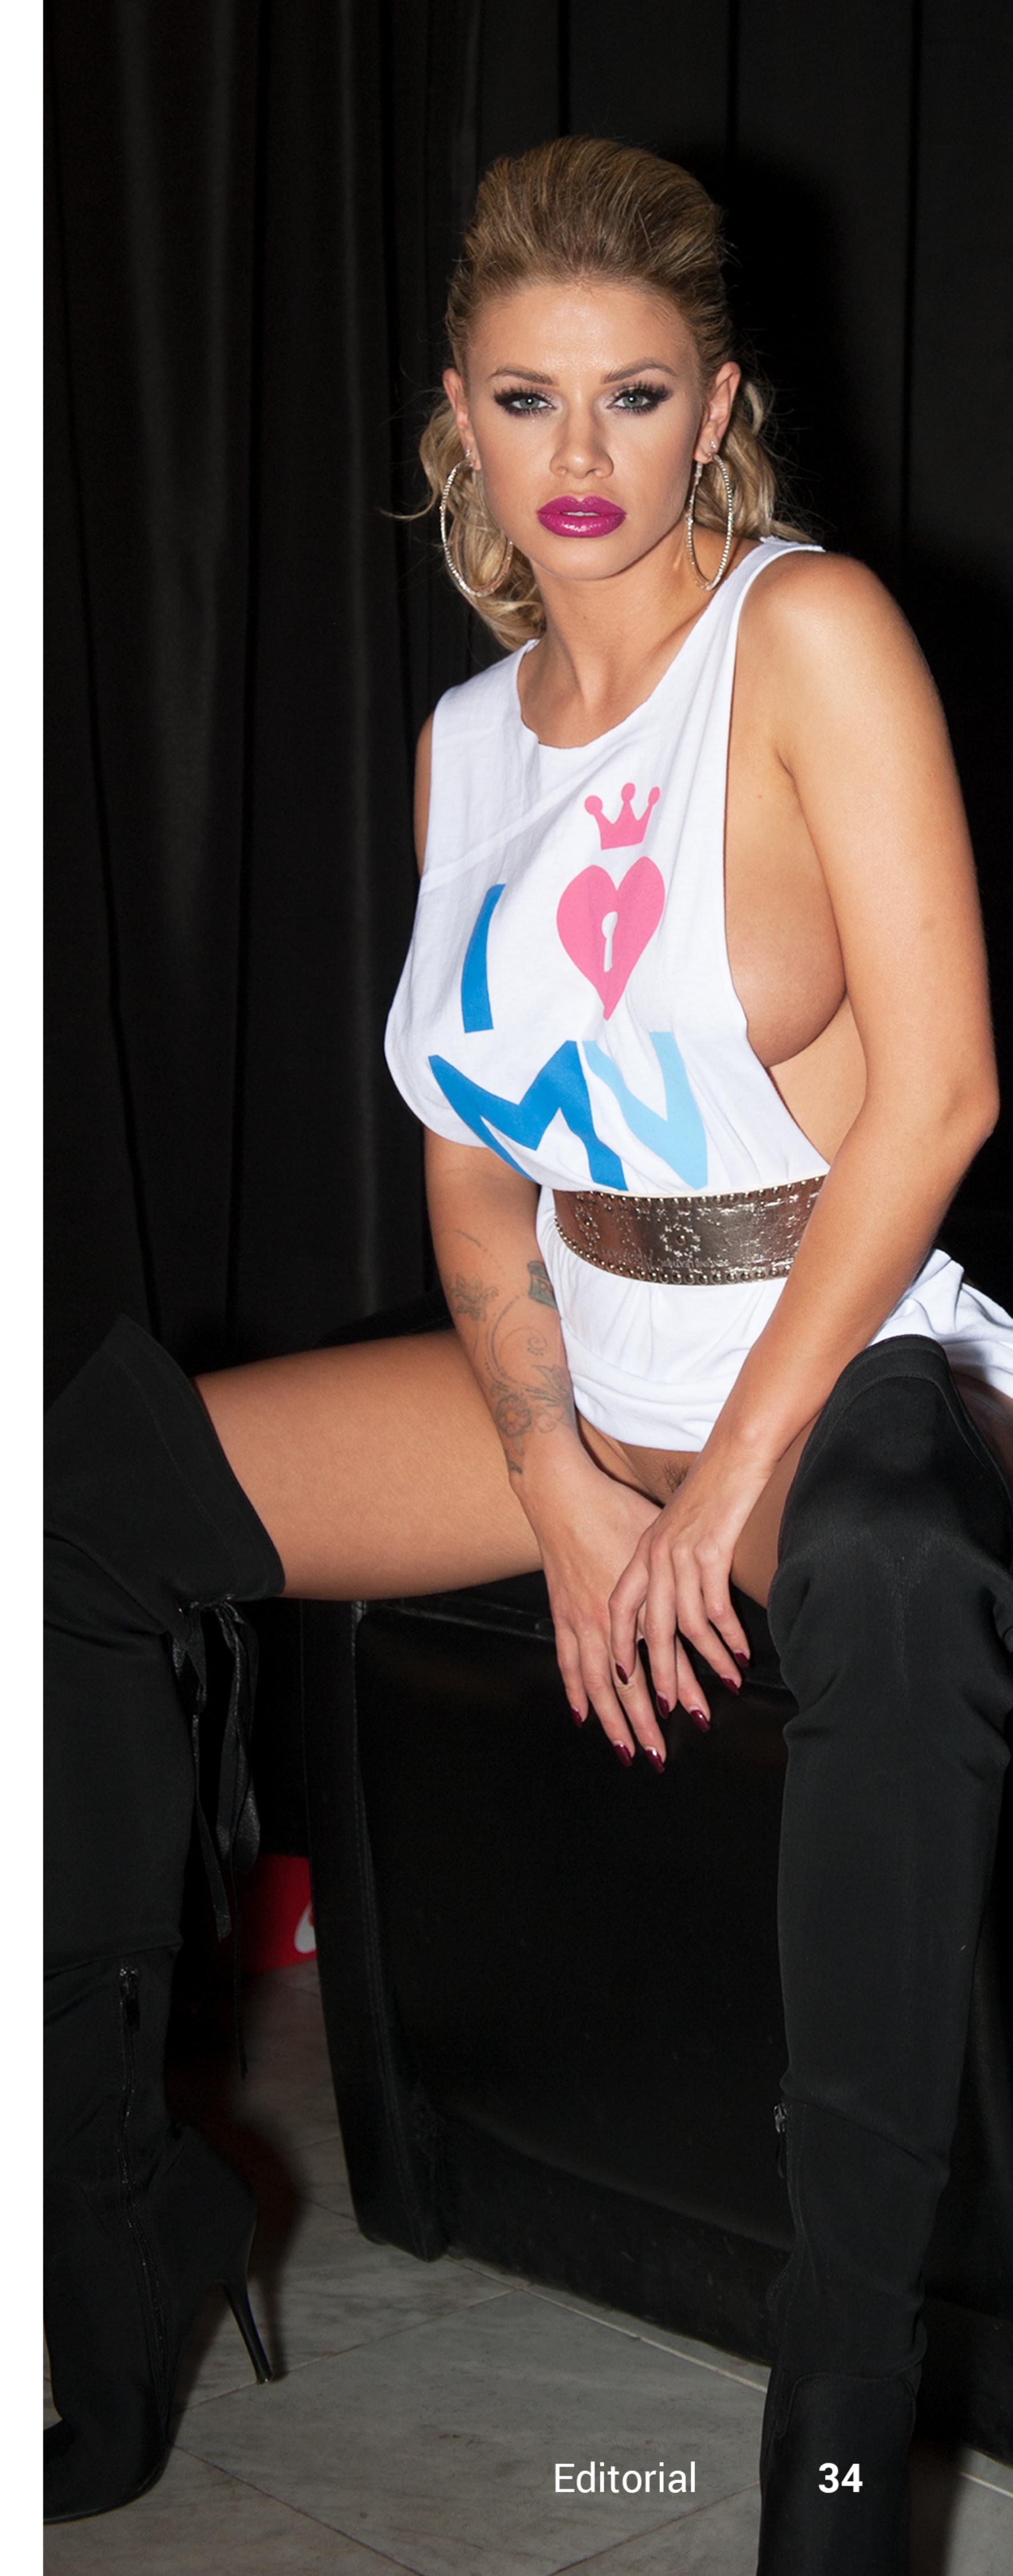

To paraphrase the great Dr. Seuss, fuck who you want and charge if you please, because those who mind don't matter and those who matter like you on your knees!

In the name of peace on Earth and good will towards men, I implore you to have your next slut shamer consider that if Jesus counted a prostitute among his closest friends, the rest of the world can definitely stop condemning now.

Make sure you cum visit Jessa's page, she'll be sure to leave you a lasting impression jessarhodes.manyvids.com

You are the epitome of what a real true porn star is all about. A sexy girl who just wants to have fun.

Can you embark on walking us through one of your wildest nights?

Jessa- One word = VEGAS. I might have to eliminate half of the details for publishing but I can tell you this: it ended with the worst hangover ever. I had 6 different stamps on my hand from all of the clubs we went to.

My friend started texting me pics the next day of me peeing in the men's bathroom at one of the clubs with a bunch of guys laughing at me. I remember at one point I was pretending to be different people and using different accents. I convinced a few people I was British for 10 minutes and it was hilarious!

The other details would just get me into trouble so I will leave it up to your imagination!

A long day in court is no fun especially when you had way too many drinks last night. You love your job on the average day, but you love it even more when you are representing a client who is young and sexy. He sits behind you as you speak watching your ass sway in that pencil skirt as you try to convince the judge of his innocence. You catch him many times staring at you, and although you need to maintain professionalism you can't help but wonder what this criminal carries in his pants. It's okay to give in, isn't it?

The jury rules in your favor and you won! The smile on his face says it all. He is very thankful and feels like he owes you everything. You really want to know more about him. You turn around and say:

- (A)"I knew we had this in the bag. I noticed you were enjoying the view. Care to grab a drink?"
- B) "I am happy that things went well. What are your plans this evening?" secretly hoping he asks you out.

Cali Carter: I am definitely not one to beat around the bush, when I see something I want I GO FOR IT... I'm not afraid to ask a guy to grab a drink!

You meet each other in the parking lot and he gets into the passenger seat of your BMW. You can't help but ask about the tattoos covering his obviously muscular body. He tells you about them as you imagine yourself kissing the ones on his neck. You:

- A) Ask him what he likes to drink so you can take things slow and talk in public somewhere before taking things further.
- B) Ask him if he wants to open a bottle of wine at your place. The quicker you can get him near your bed the better.

Cali Carter: Again, I don't like to waste any time and when I see something (especially a man) I will get what I want from him as quick as i can:)

You are headed back to your condo and he slips his hand onto your thigh in the car. You know what it means, and your body is quivering at the thought of letting him have you. You arrive at the parking lot and are about to enter the elevator. You:

- A) Think about making him dinner with nothing but an apron on so he can drool over your body some more before you give him what he wants.
- B) Immediately start stripping the clothes off of each other while the elevator goes to the penthouse floor. By the time you arrive there you have to make a run for it so the concierge doesn't see you.

Cali: Now usually I would keep the ball rolling and be naked before we even hit the bedroom, but since I know that I have the guy right where I want him. I would slow it down a little so I can let the anticipation build...

He is going strong but you are seconds from orgasm. Your heart is racing and your pussy is begging for fulfillment but he is not done yet. Do you:

- A) Let him continue thrusting you until you release your juices onto him and then get out of the shower so he can finish himself. After all, this was all about you.
- (B) Finish him with an epic blowjob even after you cum so that he can leave here satisfied and never forgetting who you are.

Cali: I'm never one to leave a man hanging so when it comes to him getting what he deserves I make sure to give him the home run;)

You might as well give her what she wants because with her attitude, she might just take it anyway.
